

SUMS

---

William Herman

I have spent my life growing old, scrambling after the good—taking some risks, hedging some bets, sucking a million cigarettes, thought I knew where I stood, mourned for the future and,
at last able to tell a story, arrived finally
in enemy territory
not entirely sold
On Virtue.